

Join the Debate

ON THE
RIGHT TO BEAR ARMS

Second Amendment

WHEN: Wednesday, September 17, at 2 p.m.

WHERE: S.E. Wimberly Library, Boca Raton campus

Florida Atlantic University Libraries and the department of political science will observe Constitution Day with a stirring debate on an individual's Second Amendment right to "keep and bear arms." The event will be held on the plaza of FAU's S.E. Wimberly Library on the Boca Raton campus, but will be moved inside of the library if it rains.

The goal of the debate's controversial topic is to encourage critical inquiry and interest in Constitutional issues among students. Dr. Kevin Wagner, assistant professor of political science, will moderate the event. Dr. Marshall DeRosa, professor of political science, will defend the Constitutional right of an individual to bear arms. Dr. Timothy Lenz, professor of political science, will defend an alternative interpretation of the Second Amendment. FAU student Matt Mesang, who is part of a national gun advocacy group, will join the debate.

The library also is hosting "U.S. Constitution: History of Current Issues," an exhibition of rare books, pamphlets and engravings from its Marvin and Sybil Weiner Spirit of America Collection of Colonial Imprints, through October 15, on the second floor. Constitution Day recognizes the ratification of the U. S. Constitution. It is observed on September 17, the day the U.S. Constitutional Convention signed the Constitution in 1787.
