FAU Set For Jewish Arts Event

By BocaNewsNow.com Staff

BOCA RATON, FL (BocaNewsNow.com) — If you are interested in Jewish Art and Artists, you may want to make some time pre-Passover for a special event hosted by the Florida Atlantic University libraries.

Here are the details, direct from FAU:

Florida Atlantic University Libraries will host art historian Marilyn Becker, who will present a visual and lecture presentation titled ‘The Legacy of Jewish Art & Artists,’ on Sunday, April 1, at 3 p.m., in the Wimberly Library’s fifth floor performance space, on the Boca Raton campus. Becker’s lecture, which is sponsored by the Jewish Cultural Society (JCS) at FAU, will give an overview of the role of Jewish artists from some of the earliest examples in history to the modern era. Among the artists that Becker will discuss are French impressionist Camille Pissarro, Italian painter and sculptor Amedeo Modigliani, German-born British painter Lucian Freud and Russian-American abstract expressionist Marc Rothko. Becker, an adjunct professor at Palm Beach State College, is the author of “The How-to-Read & How-to-Write About Art Handbook.”

The cost is $20 for the general public, $15 for JCS members and $25 for two JCS family members. The JCS is a volunteer support organization whose mission is to advance Jewish cultural traditions and education at FAU Libraries through philanthropic endeavors and programs. For tickets or for more information, contact: dottiepierce@comcast.net at 561-852-9720

This entry was posted on March 19, 2012 2:14 pm at 2:14 PM and is filed under FAU, News. You can follow any responses to this entry through the RSS 2.0 feed.