‘Video in the Classroom’ Lunch and Learn

Florida Atlantic University Libraries and the Alexander Street Press would like to invite the FAU faculty to a lunch and learn discussion on the use of video in the classroom from noon to 1:30 p.m. Wednesday, Oct. 22 at the Wimberly Library, Room 451, Boca Raton campus. Educators who use video in the classroom report that students are more engaged, understand concepts more quickly and retain more information, according to the National Teacher Training Institute. Come and share tips on successfully integrating video in teaching and learn about the Alexander Street Press platform http://search.alexanderstreet.com/.
